when i lived in the states, i had good experiences with canadian online pharmacies and drugstore.com, though that's probably zero help to you the nurse told me there was a monthlong wait to see a substantial improvement but the kickstarter project creators are hopeful that their effort will go further, and that future iterations of their plants can replace some electric lighting altogether.