but the switch hasn't been easy.

all schools issue some form of student progress report at regular intervals throughout the academic year simple sore throats usually resolve on their own within three to seven days