the expat community tends to be made up of heavy drinkers, and most social occasions will involve alcohol.

Agent identities are, rightly, the most protected of secret information.